TEXAS HIGH SCHOOLS SAID TO BE FALLING DOWN ON JOB OF PREPARING COLLEGE STUDENTS

AUSTIN, Tex., May 13—(A)—Texas high schools are falling down on their job of preparing students for university and college, Charles V. Dunham, assistant dean of men at the University of Texas, told the Texas Study of Secondary Educa-tion at a recent meeting here.

In a "straight from the shoulder" talk, Denn Dunham told the educators-principals, supervisors and eators—principals, supervisors and teachers from throughout Texas—five ways in which high schools could better help college freshmen.

Study Habits Needed
Correct study habits, higher standards of scholastic honesty, information about financial aspects of college, better relationship between students and faculty, and vocational counselling were listed as the five principal needs which high schools fail to emphasize.

"Nine out of ten students at the University of Texas who receive vocational counseling report that their failure to do well scholastically is because they did not know how to study, and that they did not knew to study, and that they did not knew to study and concentrate, rather than superficially skim over required assignments."

"Into only makes for good will, but for better understanding between both student and teacher.

"Surveys made of college grad-cated without knowning why they came to college in the first place.

"I think the high school could do a great deal toward helping the student shape his vocational needs and we need more and more high school fail to emphasize.

"It is almost impossible for any college or university to care for problems of all students," Dean Dunham concluded, and for that school," Dean Dunham charged. "Before students are ready for how to study and concentrate, rather than superficially skim over required assignments."

Another Big Egg.

An unusually large egg has been laid by Betty, a White Leghorn her owned by the Rev. and Mrs. Cheating Not Outlawed

Cheating Not Outlawed
As for scholastic honesty, Dean
Dunham said the general attitude among high school graduates is that cheating is not dishonest.
"Students should be taught very carly that they are responsible for early that they are responsible for their own work," he continued. "A survey of high school students conducted last year by a University group showed that 90 per cent of high school students admitted they had seen cheating going on, but they did not feel it was 'really dis-honest.' High schools should try to maintain a high standard of honesty, for at the University the disciplinary measures against dis-honesty are strong."

ducted by Rev. T. R. Vaughn and Rev. W. T. Allmon, Baptist ministers.

"Relationship between faculty and students could be better it fhe high school students were taught that it is not apple-polishing to talk with the teacher in conferences, or after class," he said. "Many times the richest experiences a student has are those informal talks and contacts with his teachers. It not only makes for good ers. It not only makes for good

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 13.—(A)—
Buyers again leaned toward special stocks today but neglected many market leaders.

Demand was largely based on individual situations, earnings, dividends and possible splitupe. The return to work of the coal miners aided sentiment to a certain extent although skeptics of the labor situation generally were inclined to caution pending final contract settlements and congressional developments.

Transfers for the full session were in the neighborhood of 1,-200,000 shares.

Intermittent gainers included Commercial Solvents, Yale and Towne, Francisco Sugar, Pepsicola, Omnibus Corp., Panhandle Producing, Standard Oil (NJ), General Tire, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Santa Fe and Union Carbide.

Losers at one time or another were IJ. S. Steel, General Motore, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, U. S. Rubber, Western Union "A." Douglas Aircraft, Eastern Airlines, North American, Engineers Public Service, International Nickel, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, J. C. Penney, N. Y. Cowley-For-Congress Clubs Being Formed Throughout 6th Dist

JOE COWLEY

▲ movment for the formation of Joe Cowley - For-Congress clubs throughout the Sixth District has gotten under way, according to G. L. (Jake) Smith, Hillsboro, who as temporary has been named chairman for the Hillsboro and Hill County Clubs. Ex-servicemen, business men and farmers throughout the Sixth Congressional District are reported active in promoting the functioning of the Cowley Clubs. Early announcement is expected to be made concerning the other Club formations.

Joe Cowley, aspirant for the seat in Congress so long held by Luther Johnson, is one of nine living children. His mother residing in Hillsboro is 73. Joe is 34 years of age. He is a graduate of the Hillsboro public schools, working after school in general stores and in groceries. He was born at Covington, and. moved to Hillsboro at the age of l year and resides in Hillsboro at i present.

For three years and nine months, Joe was in the Pacific, in the Navy. He save the bloody invasions of Tarawa, Kwajalein, Saipan, Tinian, Pelelieu, Okinawa -invasions marked by History's bloody pages. The Cowley boys, two in the Navy and two in the Army, did their part. Jack Cowley, for whom the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post in Hillsboro is named, resigned as Crunty Judge to enter service as an apprentice seaman. On the day following his death in action, his son, Jack, Jr. was born.

Joe is well fitted for his candidacy as he served in the State Treasury's office for seven years as Bond Clerk, responsible for the keeping of $200,000,000 in bonds and securities. As a student of Governmental finances and with Governmental affairs, Joe is well versed in economics possible in Government affairs. (Pol. Adv.)

Of Texarkana Killer Corsicana Or Count

A blanket of fear fell over Corsicana Friday night when the rumor that Texarkana's phantom killer had been seen in this area became widely circulated.

The local telephone exchange was swamped with calls from frantic familles, who sought corroboration of the report. Both the Corsicana chief of police and the Navarro county sheriff branded the rumor as mere hearsay, and the figment of someone's overactive imagina-"We have no reason to believe the Texarkana killer is in this area and there is no reason for alarm," said Chief of Police Bruce Nutt. "It isn't right to start these false rumors. Some people are already a bunch of nerves. and these reports only add to their suffering."

"We have no suspicious characters in Corsicana," he emphasize ed. "All suspicious characters are checked closely."

Cap Curington stated Saturday morning as he discussed the rumor prevalent in Corsicana late Friday that the "Texarkana phantom killer," wanted in connection with five or six brutai being sought in this section or had been seen here.

There is no basis for such a report as far as I know," Sheriff haven't had any reports and have not been asked to seek the killer here," the sheriff continued, and then explained why the report apparently started in Mexia a day or two ago that the killer was

Mexia officers arrested a man for investigation, and immediately the report spread like wildfire that the phanton killer had been apprehended at Mexia. Curington

Such a report is false, the sheriff added, as far as Navarro county is concerned.

The attack on cancer, designed to save the lives of at least half of those doomed to die of the disease, was launched in Navarro County on April 15th under the chairmanship of A. F. Mitchell of the county cancer campaign committee, and only two more days remain in which to reach the goal of

The local campaign has been a part of the nationwide drive of the American Cancer Society for its' war against cancer," our number one enemy, as has been pointed out. "Sixty cents of every dollar raised in Texas will be retained in the state for preventive education, and to provide more and better hospitals for cancer patients," Mr. Mitchell stated. "Cancer is killing 175,000 Ameri cans, including nearly 2,000 children annually," statistics reveal. "There is one cancer death every three minutes. Unless we do something about it, 17,000,000 Americans now living will die of cancer.
